It does not explain the thing away for the Conservatives to lay the blame on the Liberals; that serves both in view of the fact that the present government's tenure of office does not expire until 1919; in spite of all the corruption charges and the criticisms caused by the special tax system, all these things are not made good reasons for calling a federal election this year. The members of committee are asked to do their duty and let the people know since the war took us out and it is the Liberal government has been so poorly managed, have nothing to do with party politics. No man steals because of his party affiliation, underlings are not tried, convicted and punished because of their political complexion. Every true follower of either creed will agree to that. It is a disgrace that we cannot buy our party differences and unite to seal men and money to the front and if we remain at home get busy and produce to the limit foodstuffs, clothing, etc., in view of prolonged hostilities. Just think of it! One member at Ottawa spending the people's money needlessly, while the other system of reducing the wage of soldiers at the front while the soldiers themselves are fighting with might and main, not only for our own country, but for the present and future welfare of every man, woman and child who remains at home. In spite of our remarkable contribution to men and nations, the fact that our law makers cannot avoid a election this time stands out with mockery and a flat out disregard of our boasted patriotism. Our government should be able to withstand any abuse cast at it by an opposition which is so devoid of sensitivity as to challenge an appeal in this case. The government has done its duty, but the intentions are good. It is doubtful if any government can do much more for us, but we must have the various parties continuing the present one more faithfully. As a rebuke to those who may be seeking political gain at this time it would be only fitting for them to be completely shamed under. It is our hope that whichever party is responsible for the forthcoming election will be completely shamed under. Which party is to blame? that is the question—Kilian News.

Councillor Dutill introduced a By Law for the purpose of appointing a returning officer for an election of a councillor to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Councillor Legge. William Joyce was named in the By-Law as the returning officer, and the date set for the election was June 24th. The By-Law received its first reading.

Several tenders were received in connection with the fencing of the fire hall site, and the council decided to award the contract to Victor Weltos for the sum of $65.

A communication was received from Mr. H. E. Lyon, on behalf of certain properties of McNeill & Lyon situated on the North side of the river near the cemetery. The property included several blocks, set forth as being desirable for almost any purpose the town may need them and was offered to the town for the sum of $3,000 payable in ten-year bonds at par with interest. On motion the secretary was instructed to advise Mr. Lyon that the town was not in a position at the present time to consider such an investment.

Mike Brennan, of Coleman, whilst on a visit to Louis Moore, of Lethbridge, had the misfortune to fall down the cellar, inflicting such injuries as necessitated his removal to Galt's hospital, where it was discovered he had broken his back. An operation was performed but although still alive his condition is deemed extremely critical.

A Disgrace

Regardless of which party is responsible for the forthcoming election (if it is forthcoming) one thing is certain it is shameful to think that our little insignificant Dominion cannot settle its own affairs without alienating and antagonizing at a time when the Empire is involved in the most momentous crisis in its history. Canadians in Britain are laughing at us. They must think we Canadians are simpletons. What can they think of us anyway, when we manifest an interest in the present crisis and then become involved in a foul political embroglio?

It does not explain the thing away for the Conservatives to lay the blame on the Liberals; that serves both in view of the fact that the present government's tenure of office does not expire until 1919; in spite of all the corruption charges and the criticisms caused by the special tax system, all these things are not made good reasons for calling a federal election this year. A CANADIAN PRODUCT THAT IS OF GREAT BENEFIT TO THE FARMER

FORMALDEHYDE TREATMENT FOR SMUTTED GRAIN

All the Raw Material Used in its Manufacture is Found in Canada

Farmers Should Use it More Generally, as it is the Best

Preparation with which to Treat Seed Grain

There is every spring a greatly increasing market for the greatest disease of grain, smut. This year it is estimated that over $15,000,000 worth of grain will be lost through smut. Not only does this meet with use in the hospitals, but also in farming, although this latter is not so well known. Farmers in the West—west and east—are making preparations to treat their seed against what is commonly known as smut. Few farmers know that the best treatment is to use formaldehyde. It costs but little more than water, and is applied to the $15,000,000 lost annually through the smut, the most prevalent disease of grain, but there are great numbers of farmers who have not yet fully posted on the importance of treated seed to realize the great importance of this product.

This disinfectant is particularly adaptable to the almost general use throughout the country inasmuch as it can be applied to all kinds of grain, either hard or soft, water. It suits all grain equally well, thus having a distinct advantage over the more costly and laborious processes of fumigation. Farmers are generally well posted on the importance of treated seed to realize the great importance of this product.

The war, however, has had a most welcome effect on the market for grain, as German wheat is no longer produced in Europe and the cutting off of German supplies has increased the demand for the Canadian wheat abroad. Demands which at present Canadian manufacturers are not attempting to supply, until all Canadian ports are open again, will be met when Canada does commence to ship, she will command very remunerative prices.

The raw material from which formaldehyde is made is hard wood, such as maple, beech, oak, and birch, and of these woods, there is no lack in Canada. The cost of the wood is the chief item of expense, which one could add that one large concern which manufactures this article, with headquarters located in Seattle, has cut down the price miles on miles on each side of one of the two railroads running north through New Ontario for over 250 miles, so that it can be shipped to mill where they have erected at the Canadian Soo.

A great deal of help to new settlers in the West is given by the banks, where new lands have been opened for settlement that are heavily wooded, and it is here that the demand for formaldehyde has been greatest, for them to cut the hard wood during the winter, over a period of years, thus supplying themselves with a cash income from the start.

Most interesting is the manufacture of this article. It is made from refined wood alcohol. That it is without

The Economic Push Behind the Prohibition Movement

The prohibition law is sweeping over the country. It rises highest in the South, where the conditions used to be most inhospitable. It has all but overflowed the South famous for cheer and good fellowship, and it is here that the battle for personal liberty and self-indulgence have been almost matters of creed. The temperance movement, the wave is economic. The organization of business and industry, having realized the eternal truth that self-interest, for the farmer, for the workers, efficiency, brings its powerful influence to bear. The instinct of the highest intelligence that self-denial is the way to success has been expanded to kind compulsion for the lower. More and more personal liberty for self is being sacrificed to uprightness for others.

The dark oppression of a labor body of low will power and strong passions has brought protection to the South to the status of a slave, and the excesses of appetite, its spiritual forces is succeeding, where the brutal, unscrupulous, back law, and coarse labor failed.

The organization of the mineral wealth of the West into industry has brought about a new variety of wealth there. Colorado and Arizona have put it into law, Montana and Idaho are likely to do so, while the governor's veto. Loss of self-control and efficiency spells danger to life and property in mining, as plainly as in agriculture.

The American Copper Company excludes drinking from its mines and discourages it in its houses. An accident recently caused the entire closing of the part or complete closing of saloons in Butte during the six months of experimenting last year. Production moved to Montana, by the economic route.

The economic law is an invariable for every factory, and in the case of the Western mines and the Southern plantation. With better organization of every kind of industry under one roof, will it not overrun the country, as it has overrun Europe in the stress of war?—Minneapolis Journal.

Growing Out-Cattle

Few people appreciate the influences that are crowding out the business of cattle raising, and this part. But the progress of a more intensive agriculture is also among the potent causes of the present account of higher prices for grain and hay is felt in the addition of 4,000,000 acres to the winter wheat area, and little more which is now available for grazing. Enormous amounts of the irrigation movement in such states as California are pre-empting more and more land for the raising of non-pasturing uses. That state now has 4,000 irrigation projects, of which 4,000 have been added since 1910.—Wall Street Journal.

Dairy Bulletin

Saskatchewan—Department of Agriculture Assists the Dairy Farmer

A circular has been issued from the department of agriculture calling the attention of the dairy farmer to the facilities for marketing his produce available by the departmental government. The government, upon the completion of arrangements, takes over all business management of the dairy farm, and the department has shown that the profits of dairy farming when the co-operation of the government has been secured, are very gratifyingly increased.

The growth of the movement since its inauguration in 1907 is sufficient indication of the fact that it operates for the benefit of the dairy producers. "In 1907, 213 farmers sent in 65,246 pounds of butter. Each year the number of farmers has increased, until in 1913 the number of farmers had reached 3,625, who sent in 1,162,450 pounds of butter for the year." In the months of 1907-08, 113 farmers sent in 25,588 pounds of butter. In 1913-14, 1,000 farmers sent in 23,000 pounds.

The departmental spokesman said:

"Upon agreement between the company and the government, the latter will assume the entire management of the creamery, buying supplies, sealing the butter, making collections therefrom, keeping the books and making the payments to the company for the cream delivered to the company."

Advance payments approximating 50 per cent of the value of the product may be required twice a month to the farmer. From the remaining 20 per cent the actual cost of operating is deducted and the balance paid to the farmer at the end of the year as a final payment. By this means the farmers receive the entire benefit arising out of the co-operative arrangement and economy.

Express charges on cream shipments by rail are to be paid by the government.

In other words, all shippers get free transportation for their cream and butter.

There are advantages to the farmer living in the immediate vicinity of the creamery.

Spoke on Banking

Canadian System Reviewed by J. W. Ward at People's Forum

Much interest in the Canadian banking system developed at a meeting of the Western People's Forum.

John W. Ward delivered an address on this subject, and at the close answered questions for fully half an hour. The speaker indicated that the Canadian banking system had some strong points and some weaknesses. He did not know how far the people of Canada gave the people of Canada a service commensurate with the privileges which the Canadian banks gave to them. The Canadian banks gave to the people of Canada a large proportion of their funds to assist speculators in their financial operations. His criticism of the Canadian banking system was that it was constantly trending towards the concentration of funds.

Banknote selections were played during the afternoon by Miss Bella Heaton.

Mr. Ward admitted frankly that he was not a banking expert. His endeavor would be to view the Canadian banking system from the point of view of the man in the street. Of all the vital questions which affected the people, probably the most important was the question of the surplus money of the people, to whom the man in the street, when the great economic depression came, had to give up his savings.

The surplus money of the people, the surplus of the banks, was to take care of the surplus money of the people, to whom the man in the street, when the great economic depression came, had to give up his savings.

Banks were not supposed to lend money to people simply because they could not pay it back. Manufacturers and merchants had to buy in bulk before they could employ money for productive purposes.

A farmer had to keep moderately well supplied with grain, and when the barrel was subjected to cold when being hauled from the stations, the formaldehyde will polymerize or become solid.

From time to time come complaints from farmers that the formaldehyde has failed to kill the smut. An investigation has shown invariably that the fact that the farmer has not been subjected to too much cold.

Appeal To Forget Party Politics in Great Crisis

A call to eliminate all party politics from consideration of Canada's affairs for the sake of empire and cause was issued by the Anglican Onward Club at a meeting held in Calgary on May 10th.

The resolution read as follows:

Resolved: That this meeting expresses its profound conviction that the very grave exigencies of the nation engaged in righteous war for the rights and liberties with which the young Canadian empire has been endowed shall over come all party associated, call loudly for the exercises by those entrusted by the people with the administration of their affairs, of the duty to eliminate entirely during the present crisis all claims and considerations of what nature or kindsoever, usually associated with the tenets of all political parties and to substitute in common with the statesmen, parliaments, governing bodies and individuals of the rest of the empire their whole-hearted and unstinted devotion to work, without consideration of party politics so as to exact every available source of energy with complete cohesion and devoted determination to do all in their power to assist as much as possible in the prosecution of the war to a complete and successful termination.

Copies of the resolution were forwarded to Premier Borden, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. A. L. Silton and E. MacKenzie.

The Mail Order Craze

This paper has already stood out for patronage of home industry, of loyalty to the town, and loyalty to our own business houses. The following was written on learning that a carload of catalogues had been distributed in one district alone in the west. Somebody has got to pay for it:

"It is worth while to stop and think seriously what this sending of catalogues to mail order concerns means locally. It means poorer schools, poorer roads, higher taxes, less revenue. To my cheap things cheaper never did and will never mean prosperity."

"There is involved in this thing of sending money to large cities for goods which can be purchased from the home merchant, the question of local prosperity. It is a poor policy to tear down the business stability of the home town in order to swell the prosperity of the large city.

In the long run there can be no gain to anybody in patronizing foreign business concerns at the expense of local concerns. If local merchants cannot get sufficient business to pay the expense of operation, it means that smaller stores will close, and the range of selection will be restricted. In effect, that lower checks will be employed, in means that fewer jobs will be built up or rented; it means that the growth of the local town or city will be retarded. This means in the long run that the amount of taxes which the rural districts will have to pay will be increased or that the public highways and other conveniences which make for better things will be sacrificed."

"This thing of sending out money in large volume which should be spent at home always strikes back some way or other. The school teacher may send away for her gowns, the boarding house keeper for her groceries, the laundry and send away her needs. Then comes the era of the revolution from taxation because of demands by business are not adequate to meet expenses. The school boards are confronted with the necessity of cutting salaries, the patrons of the boarding house become fewer, the sign 'For rent' goes up, and so on, cascades posed on bulk-lots."

"The whole question of local betterment is involved in this foolish mail order craze. If the community is foolish enough to send its money abroad, which could be spent at home then that community must satisfy itself with poorer schools, churches, roads, theatres, men looking around, everybody in debt, mortgages foreclosed and general business depressed."

"If the people would cut out the mail order nonsense for six months and the local merchants would advertise and tell the good people what they have there would be a local prosperity which would surprise everybody. When all the time is spent in learning that their own community is most worthy of consideration, when they learn the folly of building great cities at the expense of their own local towns, then they can be called rational, and not silly."

We wish it to be expressly understood that the articles which appeared in these columns for the last two weeks, entitled respectively "Partners and the financial aspects of the proposed Liquor Act," and "The Liquor License Ordinance and the Liquor Act; Some Comparisons," were published as advertising matter and designated as such by the usual advertising marks at the close, and that any matter published in this paper dealing with the vote on the Liquor Act which will be taken throughout the Province on July 21st is not editorial opinion unless expressly stated to be such.

The reason why which will come before the election on July 21st is due to the taking of a vote on it, and therefore we believe that it is only right to allow the public to see both sides of the question, so that they may be able to judge intelligently of the argument on both sides. Those who are against the Act have chosen to bring their arguments to the electors, to some extent at least, through the medium of advertisements in the public press, and our columns are open to both sides on the same basis."

There may be some people who would deny the liquor men the opportunity to express their views, and that they have done so in number, and that the majority of the voters will be pleased to see justice done both sides by allowing them to state their arguments.

As far as we would permit the public to take every opportunity of seeing the arguments for and against the enactment of the new Act, which will be presented to them through the medium of the platform and the press between now and July 21st.

How the War Began

In the way of making absolutely plain the events that led up to the war in Europe, perhaps nothing better—if anything so simple, clear, and brief—has been written than the following, translation of a young Chinaman's version, which originally appeared in a Shanghai journal:

"Now there is a great battle in Europe. This began because the Prince of Austria went to Serbia with his wife. One man of Serbia killed him.

Serbia was angry, and so wrote Serbia: 'Germany write a letter to Austria: I will help you.'

Russia write a letter to Serbia: 'I will help you.'

France did not want to fight, but they got ready their soldiers.

Germany write a letter to France: 'You don't get ready, or I will fight you in nine hours.'

Germany, to fight them, passed Belgium.

Belgium says: 'I am a country, I am not a road.' And Belgium write a letter to Germany: 'Go to Belgium, to help them.'

So England helps Belgium.

Nothing could surpass that statement as to Belgium's attitude:

"I am a country not a road."

There is more truth than poetry in the writing from Newkirk's "All Sons" column of the Boston Post:

"The editor of one of our esteemed contemporaries recently received from a subscriber a postal card reading as follows: 'Please send me a few copies of your paper containing the obituary notice of my aunt. Also publish the enclosed clipping about the marriage of my niece who lives in Texas. When I was in your town last summer I called at your office and chatted with you over a hour and yet you made no mention of it and yet you made no mention of it.'

A spirit escaped from sin, inspired by the Holy Spirit, nourished by the Word of God, and constant in prayer:

"A mind act free from impurity, animated by right motives and made strong by sound reading, and a body kept clean, strong and healthy under the laws of nature, sentimental and moral persuasions, and spiritual healthiness."

A spirit escaped from sin, inspired by the Holy Spirit, nourished by the Word of God, and constant in prayer:

"A mind act free from impurity, animated by right motives and made strong by sound reading, and a body kept clean, strong and healthy under the laws of nature, sentimental and moral persuasions, and spiritual healthiness."

Therefore, sir, the royal road which leads to the city of spiritual health is the way to holiness. It begins at the cross of Jesus Christ, getting just right with God, which is essential to the salvation of both body and soul.

Reverend,

Jury Holds Huns Guilty of Murder

Kinsale, Ireland, May 11.—The coroner's jury which has been investigating the deaths attending the loss of the Lusitania returned the following verdict:

"The jury find this appalling crime was contrary to international law and the conventions of all civilized nations, and we therefore charge the officers of the submarine and the German emperor with whose orders the vessel came with the intent of killing and wholesale murder."

Colonel Horne said that this last torpedo fired by the German submarine did serious damage to the Lusitania, but that, not satisfied with this, the Germans had discharged another torpedo. The second torpedo, he said, must have been more deadly, because it went right through the ship, hastening the work of destruction.

Corrects The 'Ledge'

Presbyterian Manse,

Passing, May 7th, 1915.

To The Editor "Blairmore Enterprise,"

Sir.—In your issue of the "Enterprise,"

you say "The world needs a truth that will teach the world how to be healthy. That is all the education we need, etc.—Greenwood Lodge."

Let me tell Mr. ledge, through your valuable column, that his first assertion is right, but the other wrong, absolutely.

It is the duty and privilege of every true Christian to aspire to the enjoyment of superlative health, which is the sound condition of body, mind and spirit.

A spirit escaped from sin, inspired by the Word of God, and constant in prayer:

"A mind act free from impurity, animated by right motives and made strong by sound reading, and a body kept clean, strong and healthy under the laws of nature, sentimental and moral persuasions, and spiritual healthiness."

Therefore, sir, the royal road which leads to the city of spiritual health is the way to holiness. It begins at the cross of Jesus Christ, getting just right with God, which is essential to the salvation of both body and soul.

Reverend,

Thos. Richard Galbraith.

French Islands May Be Ceded to Newfoundland

St. John's, Nfld., May 12.—The possibility that the Miquegash Archipelago, the last north American possession of France at the close of the European war is being given serious consideration in London, where the islands of St. Pierre, Miquelon and L'Anse aux Meadows, have formed for two centuries the advance base for the French fishery on the grand banks. In recent years the property of the tiny colony has steadily diminished and all possibility of industrial progress for some time to come was destroyed when the French government in February last summoned all the able-bodied men to the colors.

It is considered probable that such a concession as survive the war will be reluctant to return to a struggling existence in the colony since the usefulness of the fisheries outposts has become slight, it is the opinion of many Newfoundlanders that France will bid for their advantage to turn the islands over to Newfoundland in return for fishing facilities in the waters.

Canadian Red Cross

Work on the Dunes of Connacht hospital at Cliveton, Taplow, England, is being carried to completion day, night and on Sundays according to a cablegram received by the Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Canadian Red Cross Society by the Canadian Red Cross Society in London. Colonel Hodgetts says there were recently 117 patients in the institution, all of whom are doing well. The Commissioner also says he has sent 1,000 cases of supplies to London.

It has been announced by Mr. Noel Marshall, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Canadian Red Cross Society, that the 500 beds at the Duchess of Connacht hospital at Cliveton, Bucks, England, have been fully subscribed and the fund is therefore closed.

Fifteen nurses from all parts of the province and western Canada spent two weeks ago in Toronto and were received with enthusiasm by Mr. Frank Marshall, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Canadian Red Cross Society, after which, through the courtesy of Mr. L. G. Martin, they witnessed a performance of "The White Feather" at the Royal Alexandra Theatre.

The nurses left Toronto at 9 o'clock Monday morning for St. John whence they sailed for the Old Country on Wednesday. On their arrival at the port of embarkation they were joined by seven more nurses and on their reaching London were received by the St. John's Ambulance Association. They will be sent where their services are most urgently required. The second contingent of nurses will sail on May 13.

A New Version

If a lassie wants the ballot
To help run the town,
And a lassie gets the ballot,
Need a lassie from town?
Many a laddie has the ballot,
Not so bright as I,
And many a laddie votes his ballot
Overcomes with ye.
If a lassie works for wages,
Tolling all the day,
And her work the laddies' equals
Give her equal pay.
If a body pays the taxes,
Surely you'll agree,
That a body earns the franchises,
Whether he or she.

Frank's football team journeyed to Bellevue on Saturday last for an exhibition game. Frank had a strong team, made up as follows: Bartlett, goal; Marjles and Bruce, backs; Jepson, Tiltman and Kennedy, half backs; Johnson, Marsh, Black, Parker and Helburn, forwards. The game was fast from the start, both teams playing good football. After fifteen minutes' play, Parker got the ball and with a fast drive placed it just inside the post. The Bellevue goal-keeper made an attempt to save, but Parker had too much speed behind him and scored the first goal. It was soon evident that Frank was too strong for Bellevue, although Jordan, Watson and Dougdale put in some nice work, Jordan making several good attempts to get through, but found Bruce a strong barrier. Half time arrived with Frank leading 2 to 0. On resuming the game quietened down considerably, Frank taking things easy. Black added a third, which gave the Bellevue custodian no chance, and the game ended in favor of Frank 3 to 0. A good crowd of rooters were present. Bruce and Black were conspicuous for the style of football they played, and Jepson certainly put up a good game.
